Introduction

At Disney's Hollywood Studios, you are the star of the show. Set against the backdrop of 1920s Hollywood, attractions such as The Great Movie Ride,

The American Idol Experience, and the Indiana Jones Epic Stunt Spectacular place you directly in the middle of scenes from iconic films and television shows.

If you have a disability, however, you may worry that you will be unable to participate.

Fortunately, Walt Disney World is an international leader in disability access.

At Disney's Hollywood Studios and throughout the Resort, you will find a nearly seamless network of options and accommodations.

No experience will be denied solely due to your disability.

Of course, certain attractions do carry health restrictions of which you must be aware.

In this tour, a former Cast Member--Disney--speak for employee--will act as your personal guide.

You will learn to navigate the park like a pro, selecting those experiences that are right for you, for example, the dinosaur tracks that lead up to Dinosaur Gertie's Ice Cream of Distinction.

Along the way, you will learn a bit about the history and development of this unique theme park.
