Tour Summary

A long and colorful history, coupled with cutting-edge art, makes Santa Fe unlike any other place on the globe. Native people with roots in ancient Puebloan cultures mingle with Hispanic people, who brought silversmithing, colorful cloth, and picturesque adobe missions to this sunny valley over 400 years ago. Europeans come to buy directly from American Indian artisans. They stroll through galleries of original Georgia O'Keeffe paintings, capture photos of historic Spanish missions, or sup on sumptuous cuisine - flavored with chilies, corn, and chocolate. Experience this culture fusion!

Introduction

Santa Fe is called the "City Different" for a reason; it is unlike any other place on the globe. Its long and colorful history coupled with its cutting-edge arts community make Santa Fe a world-class destination.

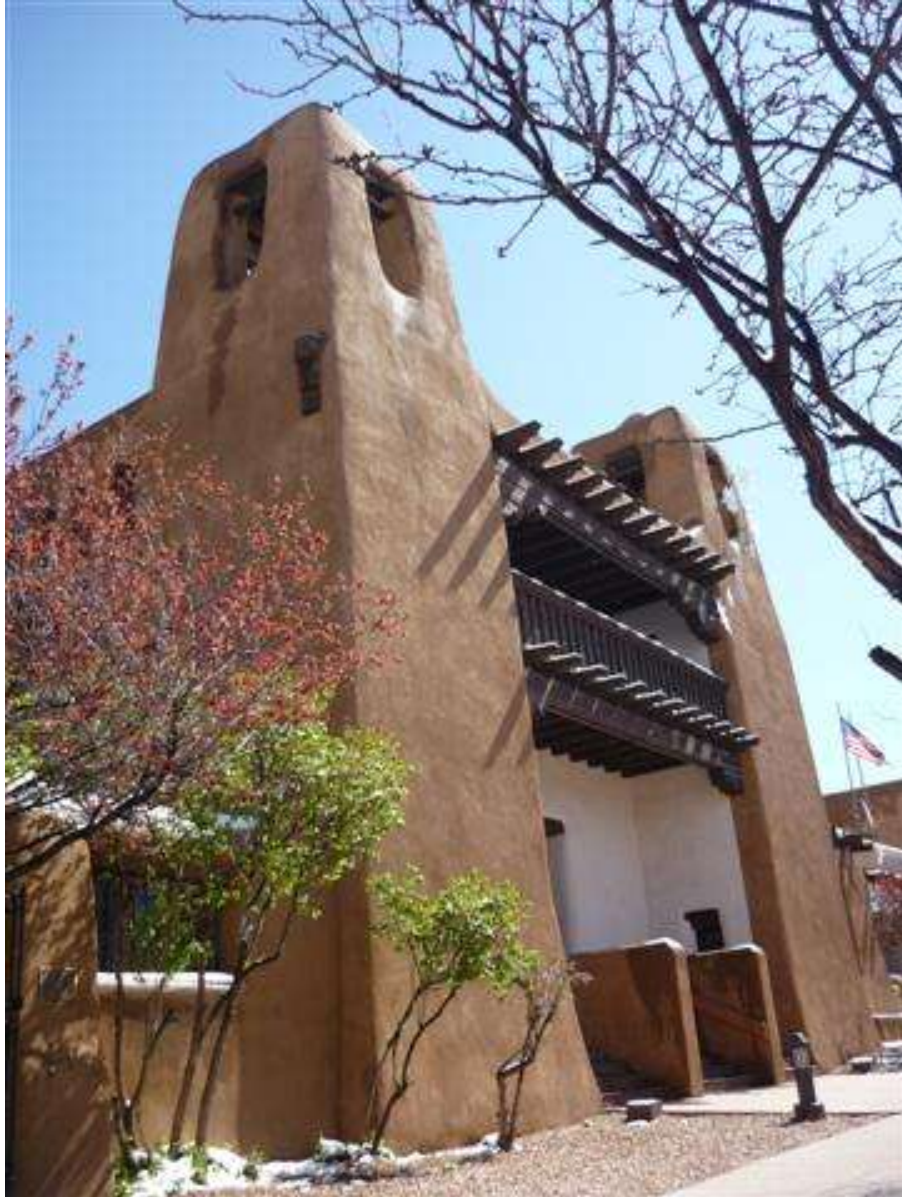

Today, Native peoples with their roots in ancient Puebloan cultures mingle with Hispanic peoples who brought silversmithing, wove colorful cloth, and built picturesque adobe mission chapels in this sunny valley over 400 years ago. Visitors come from all over the world to buy silver jewelry directly from Native artisans.

They stroll galleries for a glimpse of an original Georgia O'Keeffe painting, capture photos of historical Spanish missions, and experience the unique cuisine of northern New Mexico that is flavored with chilies, corn, and chocolate.

This tour will orient the viewer to Santa Fe's central Plaza and describe how to best explore Santa Fe: by foot! Talk to Native artisans who lay their wares on colorful blankets under the shady portal that makes Santa Fe so famous.

Learn about the unique fusion of architecture that gives Santa Fe that special feel. Throughout the tour we'll sprinkle in fun facts about the city's fascinating history.
